

Gypsum to Glenwood

Description:

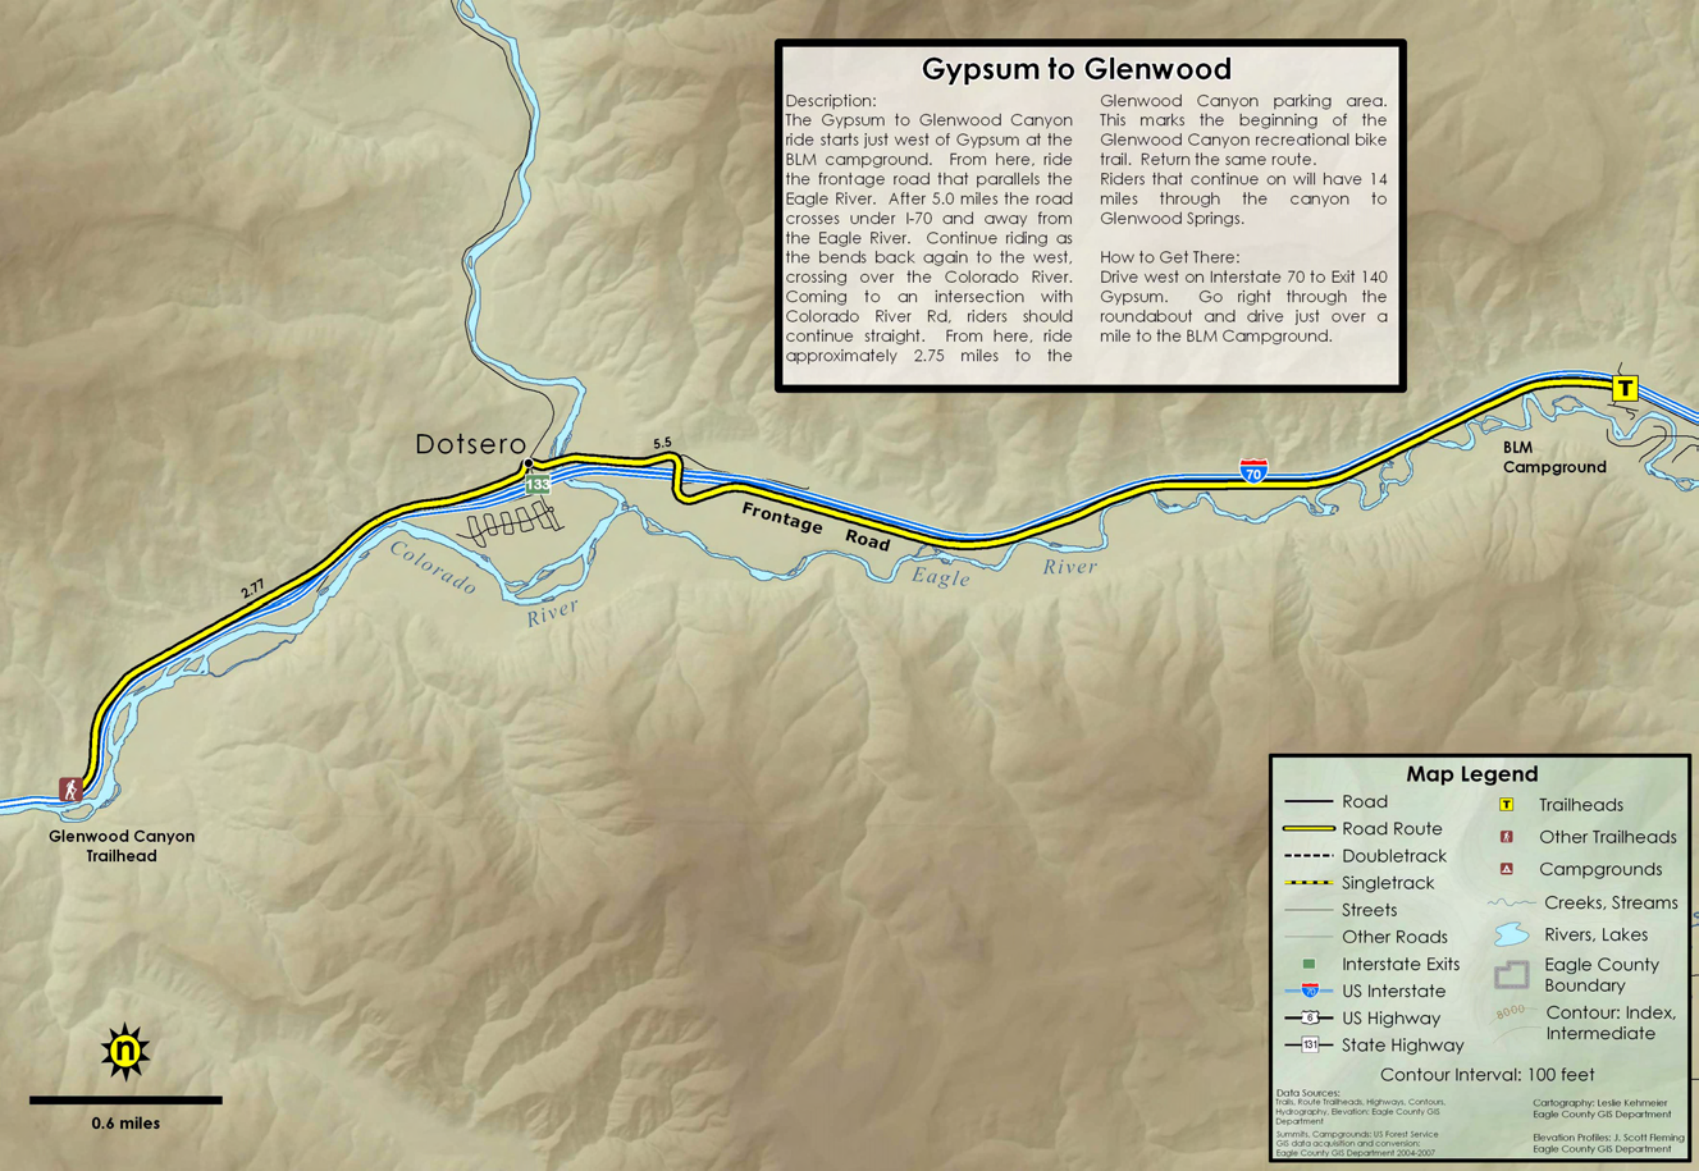

The Gypsum to Glenwood Canyon ride starts just west of Gypsum at the BLM campground. From here, ride the frontage road that parallels the Eagle River. After 5.0 miles the road crosses under I-70 and away from the Eagle River. Continue riding as the bends back again to the west, crossing over the Colorado River. Coming to an intersection with Colorado River Rd, riders should continue straight. From here, ride approximately 2.75 miles to the Glenwood Canyon parking area. This marks the beginning of the Glenwood Canyon recreational bike trail. Return the same route.

Riders that continue on will have 14 miles through the canyon to Glenwood Springs.

How to Get There:

Drive west on Interstate 70 to Exit 140 Gypsum. Go right through the roundabout and drive just over a mile to the BLM Campground.
